

The HiSET® Exam and Federal Programs

ETS — in response to states' interest in continuing to offer a reasonably priced high school equivalency test available in paper-and-pencil format — developed the HiSET® exam. States have responded enthusiastically to the HiSET program, but have sought assurances that it will be recognized for purposes of meeting federal education requirements, such as to qualify for federal student aid (grants, loans and work-study funds).

To alleviate these concerns, ETS reviewed all major federal education and training laws and regulations that reference high school equivalency assessments. As outlined in the appendix that follows, these programs including, but not limited to, the Higher Education Act, the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act, the Adult Education Act, and the Perkins Career and Technical Education Act, leave the decision to states to recognize high school equivalency alternatives and the awarding of credentials.

In addition, a student who has passed the HiSET exam in a state that has approved it as a test of secondary school-level knowledge will be given the same enlistment priority by the Department of Defense as they would for passing any other high school equivalency test approved by the state. In other words, states, not the federal government, make the determination of what constitutes an alternative for a high school diploma.

ETS is happy to answer any questions and concerns that a state may have. For assistance, please contact:
